JOHN JAY COLLEGE OF CRIMINAL JUSTICE
The City University of New York

Office of the President

Spring, 2005

Dear Graduate:

As you mark this milestone, I offer my heartfelt best wishes. I recognize that this achievement has been the result of much hard work and dedication and I join your family and friends in applauding your accomplishments.

Many of you began your studies at John Jay four years ago during a time when our country, city and the law enforcement community were tested as never before. As you embark on your careers, I am confident that the knowledge and values that you acquired during your college experience have prepared you for the greater challenges that lie ahead. Whether you enter the public or private sector, I invite you all to share the same goal - that of improving the quality of life within our nation and beyond.

So often we speak of our College "community". You are now a vital part of the extended John Jay family and I encourage you to stay connected through involvement in the Alumni Association. Your input and participation will play a pivotal role in building the future of a John Jay that is expanding its size and mission to meet the demands of the post 9-11 world.

I thank you for your contributions to the College and look forward to your continued success.

Warmest regards,

Jeremy Travis
President

To: The Year Book, Class of 2005

From: Basil Wilson Basil Wilson
Provost and Senior Vice President for Academic Affairs

Congratulations to the graduating class of 2005. You will be participants in the world of work that is rapidly changing. This change in the world of work poses particular challenges for institutions of higher education. In this regard, John Jay College as an institution specializing and seeking pre-eminence in criminal justice and related fields, has been forced to adjust its curriculum to ensure that course work synchronizes with the changing world of work.

We certainly hope that all graduating students have benefited from the extensive general educational expertise at John Jay College of Criminal Justice. General education requirements are aimed at educating the total person. As well as having one's being in the world of work, one is also a citizen of a great democracy.

The College recognizes the importance of information literacy, the need for dexterity in quantitative analysis, the ability to think critically and to write in crystal clear prose. These academic attributes are essential to compete successfully in the rapidly changing world of work.

The love of learning should not end with the conferring of the degree. As you become more experienced in the world of work, please remember your alma mater and the new generation of students who will benefit from your guidance and counsel. There is nothing more gratifying in life than to be engaged in the education of others. That is the reason why what we do is so pricelessly fulfilling.

Office of the Associate Provost

Dear Graduates,

I extend congratulations to the graduates of the class of 2005, for your hard work, achievements and success in completing all of the requirements for graduation. For many of you who will now be leaving John Jay, it will be a bittersweet experience. I am sure that you have established many wonderful friendships and developed excellent professional relationships with your Professors. However, many of your college friends will be taking different paths toward their career goals. Some will enroll in graduate programs or spend the next few years in postgraduate professional schools. And, of course, some will join the job market immediately working for corporations or government agencies.

It is possible that you may not see many of your friends and Professors ever again. But what will remain with you forever are the memories of your experiences at John Jay, and the effect John Jay has had on your intellectual growth and development, as well as on your creativity, and on your ability to think critically. Remember that John Jay also provided the environment where you have honed your social skills as well as developed academic competencies as a result of your having successfully navigated the College's rigorous curriculum. Not only have you benefited from your years at the College, but your family and community have benefited as well. There is certainly more reason to feel happy than sad; although you are leaving the John Jay community, you are joining a larger one—the thousands of distinguished John Jay College graduates who have embarked upon professional careers. It is likely that the policeman in your neighborhood, the fireman in your local fire station, and the government official or attorney who listens to your concerns all share a common John Jay experience with you.

Now as you proceed in your individual endeavors, you shall exemplify the excellent learning and training acquired at John Jay College. When nervous incoming freshmen question their own abilities, we will point to you as the role model. The faculty and administration of John Jay are proud of you and your accomplishments. The world is waiting for you and for what you have to offer. It is up to you to make your contribution to society and to make this a better, more secure and just world — and you will. John Jay College salutes you, certain of your future productivity and success.

Dear Graduates:

I am delighted to congratulate you upon earning your degree. You have worked very hard and now your dedication has paid off. This was accomplished because you set clear goals and made a commitment to see them through.

The challenges facing the criminal justice system are enormous. I am confident your degree will help you deal with these complex issues and find solutions to improve our society. The education and knowledge you have acquired at John Jay College will provide you with some of the tools to do that. I hope you will consider remaining an active member of the John Jay College community as you pursue your personal and professional goals.

I extend to each of you my best wishes in all your future endeavors. We'll done!

Sincerely,

Dear 2005 Graduate:

This year you will graduate under the leadership of our new President, Jeremy Travis. The change and growth necessary to a vital institution is at this time mirrored by your own life-altering turning point, the achievement of academic maturity.

The College takes great pride in having helped to develop an accomplished cadre of professionals in local, state, federal, and public service careers. As you move forward in your lives, we hope you will take a moment to reflect not only on your accomplishments, but on the invaluable vision of the faculty that sought to both encourage and challenge you, to instill in you both knowledge and wisdom. It has been the college's mission for over forty years to provide the best education and training possible for the uniformed services, forensic science and psychology, criminal justice, and other specializations. You are the product of that effort, in combination with your own will, determination, intelligence, and creative thought. Your graduation will therefore be an occasion of profound satisfaction both for you and for those of us at John Jay College of Criminal Justice.

June commencement marks a beginning. You will step into a complex world of opportunities and obstacles. Fortunately, your academic journey has taken place in the company of a diverse student body that has enhanced your resilience and broadened your understanding. Now you will take your hard-won intellectual knowledge and personal wisdom into the future. I urge you to use that wealth of learning to guide you in your decisions. I urge you to seek the most challenging and responsible positions. Particularly, I urge you to shape a unique legacy of contribution, first, to the community as dedicated professionals, and second, to the college as distinguished alumni.

We at the Division of Student Development celebrate your accomplishment and extend our genuine best wishes for your professional and personal success in the years to come!

Sincerely,

Roger Witherspoon, Ed.D.

Office of the Dean of Graduate Studies and Research

Dear Graduate,

It is my true delight to offer my congratulations to you upon your graduation from John Jay College of Criminal Justice. Achieving this milestone is something you should be proud of, and you can rest assured that the college is proud of you.

Each of you has demonstrated academic capability and self-discipline to fulfill the daunting requirements for obtaining the degree. But in addition you all exhibited persistence—the determination to continue on the road to academic success when obstacles presented themselves. All of us encounter problems, sometimes serious, as we pursue our dream; no one is immune from medical, personal, economic, and family difficulties. What singles out all of you is that you coped with these challenges and stayed the course. You didn't falter!

Now that you are graduating and seeking successful careers, I ask that you do your part in making the United States a better place to live. I write this one week prior to the anniversary of the tragic death of President John F. Kennedy, and I am reminded of the poignant words from his Inaugural Address: "Ask not what your country can do for you but what you can do for your country." Good advice in 1961; good advice today.

Be of good cheer. This is a happy moment, but the best is yet to come.

All the best,

James P. Levine

Each year at this time I have the joy of congratulating graduates. John Jay College congratulates you and your loved ones on your achievement. We know that there have been countless hours of happiness and pain put into your degree program. Graduation is the reward for all these efforts.

As you reflect on your experiences at the College, however, I would like to remind you that this is not the end of the process or the end of your relationship with the College. You are a member of the John Jay College family. As an alumnus/a we want you to continue to help us develop and grow. You can do this by remaining close to the College through the John Jay College Alumni Association.

On another note, education is a life long endeavor. As you complete this portion of your education, I urge you to continue to grow and continue your education at the next level. The world we live in is evolving so rapidly that it is hard to keep up. The best way to hone and improve your skills is through a process of continuing education.

Once again, congratulations and good luck in your future endeavors.

Sincerely,

Dear Graduates:

At the beginning of your college years, you realized that in order for you to meet your goal of completing your education, you would have to make many personal and social life changes. On this day of your graduation, the College, along with your friends and family, celebrate your accomplishing that goal. You have proven that you are able to make the necessary changes needed to meet almost any challenge brought before you.

This achievement, like changes did not come easy. The career you have chosen starts today and as you begin, remember the lessons you learned in college and apply those skills to your new career. Always and always, if you are ready to make the necessary sacrifices as you have done in the past, you will reach the highest points in your career. Do not settle for less. There is no question in my mind that you will continually succeed and make us all proud. Congratulations!

Sincerely,

Hector Ortiz, Ed.D.

Dear Graduates:

It is with great pleasure that we applaud you, your family and the friends who have supported you through your academic experiences here at John Jay College of Criminal Justice. With determination and hard work you have attained a valuable asset that can never be taken from you and will never depreciate. Similar to the graduation robe, academic achievement is a cloak of honor that will expose you to new experiences and opportunities. The greatest thing about education is that your experiences in the classrooms, hallways and auditoriums of our campus are now a part of who you are.

Your achievements while attending John Jay College of Criminal Justice are just the beginning of a journey filled with new challenges, awards and accomplishments. Continue to set goals and remain competitive as you move into the work force, always remember that John Jay College of Criminal Justice graduates are Change Agents for a better tomorrow and let this experience serve as the beginning of a series of achievements, as you continue on your road toward success.

To each of you we would like to extend our sincerest wishes for a prosperous future.

United States Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg at John Jay

Ruth Bader Ginsburg became an Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court in 1993. She is the second woman to serve in the Court. Throughout her many years of dedication, she has provided a steady liberal voice.

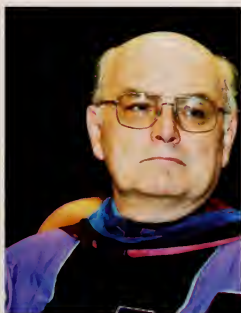

In December 2005, John Jay College of Criminal Justice had the esteemed honor of having one of the United States Supreme Court Justices, Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg, attend as our prestigious speaker.

During the 1970s, Ruth Bader Ginsburg was general counsel to the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), an organization that works for citizen's rights. While participating within the ACLU, Ginsburg actively supported women's right. Till present day, Justice Ginsburg, along with her colleagues, have won many cases involving equality between the sexes.

Janet Reno was the first woman appointed Attorney General of the United States of America. She was nominated by President Bill Clinton on February 11, 1993.

Janet Reno at JJay

ATTORNEY GENERAL TO PRESIDENT BILL CLINTON

Former Attorney General Janet Reno with President Travis

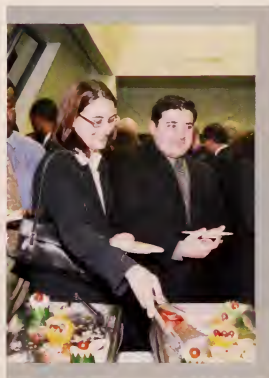

Vice President Witherspoon with the former Attorney General Janet Reno

Janet Reno was born on July 21, 1938, in Miami. Her father, Henry Reno, came to the United States from Denmark and was a police reporter for the Miami Herald for forty-three years. Reno's mother, Jane Wood, was an investigative reporter for the Miami News.

In 1960 Janet Reno enrolled at Harvard Law School, one of only sixteen women in a class of more than 500 students.

Janet Reno received her LL.B. from Harvard University. Despite having a Harvard degree, Reno had difficulty obtaining work as a lawyer because she was a woman.

Former Attorney General of the United States Janet Reno had several key priorities.

Former Attorney General Reno wanted to reduce crime and violence by incarcerating serious repeat offenders and finding alternative forms of punishment for first time, non-violent offenders.

Janet Reno's strength and tenacity makes her a great role model for the future generation.

She focused on prevention and early intervention efforts to help keep children away from gangs, drugs and violence during her eight year term in President Clinton's cabinet.
